Coining their name from the Jewish name for Hell, up and coming UK Metallers GEHENNA VII VII VII are BASICK RECORDS most recent signing; and given the bands skill in producing unkempt, musical causticity that can only come from growing up in the stark, harrowing confines of modern day England, we're happy to have them.

Since forming in 2006, the band (David Pentz (Vocals), James Smith (Guitars), Tim Morris (Guitars), Steve Richards (Bass) and Ant Smith (Drums)) have wasted no time at all in making a name for themselves as both a ferocious live act and a shining jewel in the British Metal crown.

Opting for fierce precision over cliché, the band have worked tirelessly to create a stunning exercise in concussive modern Metal that harks back to the brash violence of hardcore mob STAMPIN' GROUND, the whippet fast death metal chops of DYING FETUS and the emotive sensibilities of CONVERGE; resulting in a bruising lesson in musical extremity that is second to none. Tracks such as the flooring 'Seven' and the shatteringly rhythmic 'The Rose' echo all the sounds of a band that have honed their craft to perfection.

Couple this with a raft of killer shows alongside the likes of ARCHITECTS and BRING ME THE HORIZON, not to mention a slot supporting HATEBREED at the Oxford Carling Academy (a show in which they were handpicked by front man Jamey Jasta himself) and you've got yourself a dazzlingly technical and annihilatingly heavy prospect for 21st century British Metal at its finest.
